Gallatin Research Journal 2013-2014 Submission Guidelines

The Gallatin Research Journal (GRJ) is a student-run publication devoted to providing a showcase for the excellence achieved by Gallatin students in the arena of academic non-fiction work. It is our goal at the GRJ to strengthen the connections between individuals and ideas in Gallatin by affording students from all fields of academic interest the opportunity to have their work published in a single platform. The GRJ thus establishes itself as an interdisciplinary periodical that embraces the structure of Gallatin's individualized curriculum. We also strive to provide an exemplary representation of the academic rigor engaged in by Gallatin students and interdisciplinary study in general.

Students interested in submitting should provide the following information to gallatin.journal@gmail.com no later than Saturday, December 20:

- Name
- Year
- Concentration
- N#
- Title
- Abstract of approx. 100-200 words

Guidelines

In order for a paper to be considered for print, the author must be a current Gallatin Undergraduate. All papers must be cited properly in APA format (including page numbers). For guidelines on the proper citation style please consult the OWL: APA Formatting and Style Guide provided by Purdue University (http://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/560/01/). If the submission is not cited correctly, it will be returned to the author. All submissions must be sent as either a .doc or .docx file.

The GRJ takes plagiarism seriously and will report all cases to the Gallatin Administration. Gallatin’s academic integrity policy can be located at the following address:

http://gallatin.nyu.edu/academics/policies/graduate/academic-integrity.html

For more information and to view past issues of the publication, students can visit http://gallatin.nyu.edu/studentlife/studentpublications.html, or pick up a copy in the 5th floor lounge.
Any inquiries unanswered in this message or the website can also be forwarded to the above email address.

We are very excited here at the GRJ to be entering our fifth year of publication, and we are confident that with the intellectual contributions of the Gallatin community it will be just as successful as years past.

Happy submitting!

--
Henry Topper
Editor-in-Chief, Gallatin Research Journal
henrytopper@nyu.edu